What Is CLEP®?

The College-Level Examination Program® (CLEP®) offers you the opportunity to receive college credit for what you already know by earning qualifying scores on any of the 34 CLEP examinations. The exams are administered at 1,400 colleges in the United States and abroad; 2,900 colleges and universities will accept credit for successful scores. CLEP exams allow people who have acquired comprehensive subject knowledge through independent or prior study, on-the-job training, or cultural pursuits to show that they have mastered college-level material.

Pass It On!

Share this information with a friend, family member, or co-worker who could benefit from CLEP! Visit www.collegeboard.com/clep for the latest updates. Thank you for helping us spread the word about CLEP.

“With a career in the military, sometimes it is difficult to find time to take college classes. At the time that I took my CLEP exams, I was serving on independent duty on a Coast Guard cutter. My deployment schedule did not allow for a traditional college education and distance learning was not at the level that it's at today. These CLEP exams saved me thousands of dollars and months toward my degree.”

Carey Bollinger
U.S. Coast Guard; Liberty University

“When I got out of high school, I took CLEP College Math and two summer classes. In the fall, I took the Spanish Language exam. These courses and exams gave me 15 hours of college credit. Thanks to CLEP, I have been able to take fewer classes and get better grades by focusing on my graphic design courses.”

Rogério Molina
University of the Incarnate Word

“Taking CLEP exams helped me earn an associate degree in six months, thereby saving a substantial amount of time and money in tuition and books. I am now working on my bachelor's degree and CLEP will certainly be an important factor in completing that degree as well.”

Susanne Davis
Coastline Community College

Shorten Your Path to a College Degree

By reducing the number of courses you need to complete a college degree, CLEP can make it possible for you to earn your degree more efficiently. Whether you're entering college and hoping to accelerate your studies or focus on advanced course work, a part-time student concerned with finding the fastest route to a degree, or a working adult thinking about beginning or resuming college, CLEP can help you:

- Shorten the time it takes to earn a degree.
- Save tuition dollars.
- Graduate on time if you're a few credits shy of your degree.
- Add flexibility to your degree program.

Join the six million people who have used CLEP to get a college degree in record time!

Who Earns College Credit with CLEP?

- Traditional-age college students
- Adults returning to school
- Military service members
- Homeschooled students
- Speakers of foreign languages looking to fulfill their language requirements
- International students who want to translate their overseas courses into credit at U.S. colleges
- Applicants for master's degree programs looking to fulfill undergraduate prerequisites
- Professionals wanting to advance in their careers

Taking CLEP Exams

All 34 CLEP examinations are administered on computer, offering many advantages:

- Instant candidate score reports*
- Year-round testing
- “Rights-only” scoring—no penalty for guessing

If you are unfamiliar with computer-based testing, consult the CLEP Sampler online at www.collegeboard.com/clep. The CLEP Sampler will familiarize you with the different types of CLEP test questions and teach you how to navigate through a test using the testing tool icons. The Web site also provides test-taking tips and procedures.

*Except for English Composition with Essay.

How to Get Started

Step One: Find out your college's CLEP policy.

Each college sets its own policy regarding which CLEP exams it will grant credit for and how many credits it will award. Contact your admissions officer or academic adviser to learn more about the CLEP policy at your institution. You do not need to be enrolled in a college in order to take a CLEP examination. Send your scores to your college when you enroll. For a list of the colleges that grant credit for CLEP, visit www.collegeboard.com/CLEPcolleges.

Step Two: Decide which exam(s) to take.

Brief descriptions of all 34 exams appear on the following pages. You can read detailed descriptions of each at www.collegeboard.com/clep.

Step Three: Find a test center and register to take your exam(s).

CLEP examinations are administered throughout the year at 1,400 colleges and universities in the United States and abroad. Visit www.collegeboard.com/CLEPtestcenters to search the most up-to-date database of test centers.

Once you've identified a convenient test center, contact that site directly for information about registration, scheduling, and fees. In addition to the $70 exam fee, most test centers charge a nonrefundable administration fee, directly payable to the institution. The College Board recommends a $15 administration fee; however, each test center establishes its own policies and may charge a different amount.

Repeating Examinations

You may not repeat an examination of the same title within six months of the initial testing date. If you retake the examination within the six-month period, your administration will be considered invalid, your score will be canceled, and any test fees will be forfeited.

DANTES-funded military examinees: The U.S. government will not fund CLEP examinations that are repeated within a 180-day period.

Military Personnel

CLEP exams are funded by the U.S. government through the Defense Activity for Non-Traditional Education Support (DANTES) for the following:

- Military personnel (active duty, reserve, National Guard): Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps, U.S. Coast Guard, Army Reserve, Air Force Reserve, Marine Corps Reserve, Navy Reserve, Coast Guard Reserve, Army and Air National Guard

- Spouses and civilian employees of: Air Force Reserve, Air National Guard, Army National Guard, Army Reserve, Coast Guard (active and reserve)
- Department of Defense Acquisition personnel (eligible only for the following computer-based exams: Principles of Macroeconomics, Principles of Microeconomics, and Principles of Marketing)

Note: CLEP exams for civil service employees, inactive guard or reserve personnel, and spouses and dependents not listed above are NOT funded through DANTES. In addition, the U.S. government will not fund CLEP examinations that are repeated within a 180-day period.

Veterans

Veterans can claim reimbursement for CLEP exams and exam administration fees under provisions of the Veterans' Benefits Improvement Act of 2004 (Public Law 108-454), which enhances the education benefits of the Montgomery GI Bill. For more information, visit www.collegeboard.com/clepveterans.

International Candidates

If you are outside of the United States and there is currently no testing center in your area, consider taking CLEP upon arriving in the United States at the college or university where you will begin your course work. Ask your admissions officer or international student adviser about the college's CLEP policy.

Accommodations for Students with Disabilities

CLEP is committed to working with test-takers with disabilities. Only students with documented hearing, learning, physical, or visual disabilities are eligible to receive testing accommodations. Contact a CLEP test center prior to registration to ensure that the accommodation you need is available. If you do not attend the testing institution, you must submit an IEP (Individualized Education Plan) from your score recipient institution, or comparable documentation, to the test center. Each test center sets its own guidelines for submitting documentation and approving accommodations.

Testing accommodations that may be provided with appropriate disability documentation include:

- ZoomText (screen magnification)
- Modifiable screen colors
- Use of a reader or amanuensis or sign language interpreter
- Scripts (for language exams)
- Extended time
- Untimed rest breaks

Exam Descriptions

CLEP examinations cover material that students typically encounter during their first two years of college. A college often grants the same amount of credit for a CLEP exam that it grants for the equivalent course.

Many CLEP examinations are designed to correspond to one-semester courses; some, however, correspond to full-year or two-year courses. At most schools, students earn three credits for a one-semester course and six credits for a full-year course.

Each exam is approximately 90 minutes long and, except for English Composition with Essay, is made up primarily of multiple-choice questions; however, some exams do include other types of questions. Visit www.collegeboard.com/clep to download the CLEP Sampler, which reviews the format of questions, and to read a detailed description of each exam.

Composition and Literature

English Composition with Essay is the only exam that includes a required essay. Test-takers type the essay into the CLEP software. It is scored by college English faculty designated by CLEP. There is no additional fee for the essay. Scores for this exam take two to three weeks to be reported.

Other Composition and Literature exams have optional essays, which some colleges and universities require and others do not. These essays are handwritten and are graded by faculty at the institution that requires them. Contact the college or university you are planning to attend to ask about its essay requirements. Optional essays cost an additional $10. Check with your test center for details.

- American Literature covers the prose and poetry written in the United States from colonial times to the present. It primarily tests knowledge about literary works—their content, their backgrounds, and their authors. (6 credits)

- Analyzing and Interpreting Literature tests your ability to analyze and interpret literary passages from poetry, fiction, nonfiction, and drama. Familiarity with specific literary works is not required. (6 credits)
- English Composition assesses the skills required for writing that explains, interprets, analyzes, or presents and supports a point of view, as well as the ability to apply the principles and conventions of Standard Written English. (6 credits)
- English Composition with Essay requires you to write a 45-minute essay in addition to completing a 45-minute multiple-choice section. The essay must be typed on a computer. (6 credits)

- English Literature covers the prose, poetry, and drama written by British and other authors writing in a postcolonial context, from Beowulf to the present. It requires knowledge of major authors and literary works and familiarity with common literary terms and basic literary forms. (6 credits)

- Freshman College Composition measures the skills required in most first-year English courses. The test addresses the elements of language, grammar, various types of formal and informal writing, and limited analysis and interpretation of short passages of prose and poetry. The exam assumes that you know the fundamental principles of rhetoric and can apply the principles of Standard Written English. The test also requires familiarity with research papers and reference skills. (6 credits)

- Humanities tests general knowledge of literature, art, music, and other performing arts. It covers all periods from classical to contemporary and many different fields: poetry, prose, philosophy, art, architecture, music, dance, theater, and film. (6 credits)

“My roles as wife and mother, as well as the demands on my time from a family business and part-time employment, compelled me to find the most expedient route to a degree in nursing. Earning credits through three CLEP exams provided me with a substantial financial advantage as well. CLEP was invaluable in putting me on the fast track to my BSN.”

Maria Gonzalez
Bucks County Community College

“Thanks to CLEP, I added a second major and accelerated my degree program. I earned bachelor’s degrees in Business Administration and Political Science after only three years of college. CLEP was the key to my success.”

Jason Crook
Middle Tennessee State University

Note: Only one version of the English Composition exam may be taken in the same six-month period. Before registering, find out which version your college requires.

Foreign Languages

These exams cover language skills usually learned in the first one or two years of college study. They include reading and listening skills and three separately timed sections. Most colleges that award credit for the language exams will grant either two or four semesters of credit, depending on your exam score. (Up to 12 credits)

- French Language
- German Language
- Spanish Language

History and Social Sciences

- American Government covers material usually taught in a one-semester introductory course in American government and politics. It includes topics such as the institutions and policy processes of the federal government, the federal courts and civil liberties, political parties and pressure groups, political beliefs and behavior, and the content and history of the Constitution. (3 credits)
- History of the United States I: Early Colonization to 1877 covers the period of U.S. history from early European colonization to the end of Reconstruction, including political, social, cultural, economic, and diplomatic history. The majority of the questions cover the period 1790–1877. (3 credits)
- History of the United States II: 1865 to the Present covers the period of U.S. history from the end of the Civil War to the present, including the same aspects of history addressed in History of the United States I. Primary emphasis is on the 20th century. (3 credits)
- Human Growth and Development covers material taught in an introductory developmental psychology or human development course, including the periods of infancy, childhood, adolescence, adulthood, and aging. An understanding of the major theories and research related to the broad categories of physical, cognitive, and social development is required. (3 credits)

- Introduction to Educational Psychology covers principles of learning and cognition, teaching methods and classroom management, child growth and development, and evaluation and assessment of learning. (3 credits)
- Introductory Psychology includes topics such as the biological bases of behavior, sensation and perception, states of consciousness, learning, cognition, motivation and emotion, developmental and social psychology, personality, and psychological disorders. (3 credits)
- Introductory Sociology deals with social institutions; stratification; social patterns, processes, and changes; and sociological theory. It emphasizes facts and concepts as well as general theoretical approaches. (3 credits) on this exam require you to apply analytical techniques to hypothetical as well as real-world situations and to analyze and evaluate economic decisions. (3 credits)

- Social Sciences and History is a general exam that is intended to satisfy social sciences and history distribution requirements for nonmajors. It includes questions on political science, economics, sociology, psychology, geography, anthropology, United States history, Western civilization, and world history. (6 credits)
- Western Civilization I: Ancient Near East to 1648 covers the civilizations of Ancient Greece, Rome, and the Near East; the Middle Ages; the Renaissance and Reformation; and early modern Europe. Test-takers may be asked to evaluate or interpret historical data or primary sources. (3 credits)

“As a 41-year-old with a wife and two kids, I needed to find a way to accelerate my degree program while reducing my course load each semester. CLEP helped me to graduate in two years without ever having to take more than 12 credit hours per semester. I tell everyone about CLEP; I’ve succeeded in getting about 15 fellow students to take CLEP exams.”

Wesley Reitz
West Texas A&M University

“CLEP allowed me to prove that the knowledge I’ve picked up through my years of teaching was more than equivalent to taking college courses. I only had six credits above my master’s degree; by taking CLEP exams, I earned 24 credits in three months and was able to increase my teacher’s salary by over $5,000 annually.”

Brett Erenberg
New York City Department of Education

- Principles of Macroeconomics covers the principles of economics that apply to a total economic system, particularly the general levels of output and income and interrelations among sectors of the economy. It emphasizes the determinants of aggregate demand and supply, and the monetary and fiscal policies appropriate to achieve particular policy objectives. (3 credits)
- Principles of Microeconomics deals with the principles of economics that apply to the analysis of the behavior of individual consumers and businesses in the economy. Questions
- Western Civilization II: 1648 to the Present covers European history from the mid-seventeenth century through the post–World War II period. It includes political, economic, and cultural developments such as scientific thought, the Enlightenment, the French and Industrial Revolutions, nationalism, imperialism, the Russian Revolution, and World Wars I and II. (3 credits)

Science and Mathematics

A calculator is built into the computer software for some of the math exams. The pretest tutorials and the CLEP Sampler demonstrate the use of this tool. See the individual exam descriptions for more details. You are not permitted to use your own calculator.

- Biology covers three major areas of the biological sciences: molecular and cellular biology; organismal biology; and population biology, including evolution and principles of ecology. (6 credits)
Note: Beginning in January 2009, an online graphing calculator will be available during some portions of this exam. Students should familiarize themselves with the calculator functionality before taking Calculus; practice time will not be available during the exam. A free tutorial is available at www.collegeboard.com/clep in the Exam Description section.
- Chemistry requires understanding of the structure and states of matter, reaction types, equations and stoichiometry, equilibrium, kinetics, thermodynamics, and descriptive and experimental chemistry. (6 credits)
Note: An online scientific calculator (nongraphing) and a periodic table are available during this exam.
- College Algebra includes basic algebraic operations; equations and inequalities; algebraic, exponential, and logarithmic functions and their properties; and number systems and operations. (3 credits)
Note: An online scientific calculator (nongraphing) is available during this exam.

- College Mathematics covers material generally taught in a college course for students majoring in subjects that don't require advanced math. The test includes questions on the real number system, logic, sets, equations, functions and their graphs, probability, statistics, data analyses, complex numbers, logarithms and exponents, and applications from algebra and geometry. (6 credits)
Note: An online scientific calculator (nongraphing) is available during this exam.

- Natural Sciences is intended to satisfy science distribution requirements for nonscience majors. It includes biological and physical science topics such as classification and function of organisms, evolution, genetics, cells, ecology, atomic and nuclear structure, chemical elements, thermodynamics, classical mechanics, electricity, astronomy, and geology. (6 credits)
- Precalculus tests your knowledge of specific properties of the following types of functions: linear, quadratic, absolute value, square root, polynomial, rational, exponential, logarithmic, trigonometric, inverse trigonometric, and piecewise-defined. (3 credits)
Note: An online graphing calculator is available during some portions of this exam. Students should familiarize themselves with the calculator functionality before taking Precalculus; practice time will not be available during the exam. A free tutorial is available at www.collegeboard.com/clep in the Exam Description section.

Business

- Financial Accounting tests familiarity with accounting concepts and terminology; preparation, use, and analysis of accounting data and financial reports issued for both internal and external purposes; application of accounting techniques to problem-solving situations involving computations; and generally accepted accounting principles and procedures.
Note: A four-function calculator is available during the exam.
- Information Systems and Computer Applications requires familiarity with computer hardware and software, system development and usage, design tools and programming logic, data management, telecommunications, organization and user-support systems, information processing, and the business, social, and ethical implications of developments in this field. (3 credits)
- Introductory Business Law emphasizes the functions of contracts in American business law. It also includes questions on the history and sources of American law, legal systems and procedures, agency and employment, sales, and other topics. (3 credits)
- Principles of Management covers the essentials of management and organization in a variety of settings. It requires knowledge of human resources and operational aspects of management but emphasizes functional aspects of management. (3 credits)
- Principles of Marketing deals with the role of marketing in society and within a company, understanding consumer and organizational markets, marketing strategy planning, the marketing mix, marketing institutions, and selected other topics such as international marketing, ethics, market research, services, and not-for-profit marketing. (3 credits)

Preparing to Take CLEP Exams

1. Review the exam description online or in the CLEP Official Study Guide. Assess your knowledge of the topics, terms, names, and symbols that are mentioned.
2. Answer sample questions in the CLEP Official Study Guide or in the individual exam guides and use the answer key to determine your number of correct responses. Although these questions won't appear on the actual exam, the proportion of sample questions you can answer correctly should give you a rough estimate of the proportion of questions you will be able to answer correctly on the exam.
3. Become familiar with the computer-based format of CLEP exams. Download and install the CLEP Sampler (available on the CLEP Web site).
4. Check with your college bookstore to find out which books and materials are used for the equivalent course in the exam subject. You can often find the course syllabus on your college's Web site as well.
5. Study textbooks and other resources used in the comparable course. Match the content outline and the "knowledge and skills" outline for the exam to the table of contents in the textbooks to be certain that areas of study match exam content.
6. Find course materials and lectures online at Web sites like MIT OpenCourseWare, Carnegie Mellon's Open Learning Initiative, and the Online Education Database.

Most of this material is offered for free. Educational Web sites, like those offered by PBS or the National Geographic Society, can be helpful as well.

7. Check with your librarian about locating study aids relevant to the exam you plan to take. These supplementary materials may include, for example, videos or DVDs made by education-oriented companies and organizations, language tapes, and computer software.
8. If you are a DANTEs-funded military candidate, you can obtain free study materials through your base education center.

CLEP Study Materials: A Word of Warning

Many private companies offer preparation services for CLEP exams. Some are legitimate, but some make promises they cannot keep and sell services and products that you don't need.

From time to time, the College Board becomes aware of complaints from CLEP candidates regarding practices that they consider to be unfair or inappropriate. Some of these practices include attempts to sell preparation services for many CLEP exams at once, with sizable payment up front or on credit; credit agreements with a company other than the one selling the preparation material; salespeople contacting students or their families at home; promises that students can get college credit without enrolling in college; and attempts to sell students dictionaries or encyclopedias as part of the test preparation package.

Order the CLEP Official Study Guide 2009

The CLEP Official Study Guide 2009 is the only official source of information about the computer-based CLEP exams. It contains exam descriptions, test-taking strategies, sample questions and answers for all 34 exams, and general information about credit-by-examination.

The Study Guide costs USD $24.95 (plus $5 for shipping and handling). To order, visit the College Board Store (store.collegeboard.com). You can also place a credit card order over the phone by calling 800 323-7155 (toll free in the United States), Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. EST. International customers please call 212 713-8260.

Taking Only One or Two CLEP Exams?

If you're taking just one or two CLEP exams, you should consider purchasing individual exam guides instead of the comprehensive CLEP Official Study Guide. The content for a particular subject in the comprehensive Study Guide is the same as that in the individual exam guides. For $10 you will get an outline of the test, sample questions and answers, and tips for preparing to take the exam. Individual exam guides are available for download from the College Board store (store.collegeboard.com).

If a preparation company engages in practices that you feel may be inappropriate, be sure to investigate the company thoroughly before you make a purchase. The College Board recommends that you seek the assistance of an organization such as the Better Business Bureau (www.bbb.org) or the Federal Trade Commission (www.ftc.gov) if you believe someone has cheated you.

On Examination Day

- Arrive on time. Plan to arrive in advance of your exam appointment time. You will not be admitted after the testing session has begun.
- Make sure you bring any registration forms or printouts required by the test center (some test centers require the registration form provided at the back of this booklet).
- You must also bring two forms of identification. The primary form must be a government-issued photo ID with signature, such as a passport, state-issued driver's license, state-issued ID card, tribal ID, naturalization card, or certificate of citizenship.
The secondary form of ID must have a photo or signature, such as a Social Security card, student ID, credit card, or employee ID. All DANTES-funded military candidates must present a current military ID. If you fail to present appropriate ID, you will not be tested.
- Bring a nonmechanical pencil.
- Scratch paper will be provided by the test center.
- Exam rest breaks are not scheduled.

Prohibited Items

- Calculators (a calculator function is built into the software for some exams)
- Cellular phones/pagers, beepers, walkie-talkies, PDAs, or wireless communication devices (e.g., BlackBerry)
- Digital watches (wrist or pocket), alarm watches, or wristwatch cameras
- Any kind of photographic or copying device
- Listening devices such as radios, media players with headphones, or recorders
- Dictionaries, books, pamphlets, or reference materials
- Papers of any kind (scratch paper will be provided by the test center administrator)
- Mechanical pencils or any type of pen or highlighter
- Slide rules, protractors, compasses, or rulers
- Food, beverages, or tobacco products
- Hats (unless worn as a religious requirement)
- Any other unauthorized testing aids

What Your CLEP Score Means

In order to reach the total score you see on your score report, two calculations are performed.

First, your “raw score” is calculated. This is the number of questions you answered correctly. Your raw score increases by one point for each question answered correctly, and no points are gained or lost when a question is not answered or is answered incorrectly.

Second, your raw score is converted into a “scaled score” by a statistical process called equating. Equating maintains the consistency of standards for test scores over time by adjusting for slight differences in difficulty between test forms. This ensures that your score does not depend on the specific test form you took or how well others did on the same form. Your raw score is converted to a scaled score that ranges from 20, the lowest, to 80, the highest. The final scaled score is the score that appears on your score report.

To see whether you attained a score sufficient to receive college credit, compare your score to the scores in the table on the next page. The scores that appear in this table are the credit-granting scores recommended by the American Council on Education (ACE). Each college, however, reserves the right to set its own credit-granting policy, which may differ from that of ACE. If you have not already done so, contact your college as soon as possible to find out the score it requires to grant credit, the number of credit hours granted, and the course(s) that can be bypassed with a satisfactory score.

Please note that CLEP examinations are developed and evaluated independently and are not linked to each other except by the program's common purpose, format, and method of reporting results. For this reason, direct comparisons should not be made between CLEP examinations in different subjects. CLEP scores are not comparable to SAT® scores or other test scores.

Test scores are kept on file for 20 years. During this period, score reports may be sent to an institution, but only at the request of the candidate. A Transcript Request Form and instructions for sending a transcript to an institution can be downloaded from the CLEP Web site (www.collegeboard.com/clep) or obtained by contacting CLEP.

"I would not be a college graduate today without CLEP. The exams allowed me to demonstrate the skills and knowledge I acquired through years of reading and self-study. With CLEP, I was able to skip introductory courses in the subjects that I wanted to study more rigorously, and earn credit for electives in other areas of interest."

Score Reporting Policies

You will receive a copy of your exam score upon completion of the exam. If you have taken English Composition with Essay, you will receive a combined score after the essay has been scored, usually three to four weeks after your test date.

If you want to send your scores to a college, employer, or certifying agency, you must select this option through the examination software on the day of the exam. This service is free of charge only if you select your score recipient at the time you test. A $20 fee will be charged for each transcript ordered at a later date. You may use the form in this booklet to order transcripts.

Candidates cannot receive scores by phone, fax, or e-mail under any circumstances, and scores are not available on the Web. All scores are sent by first-class mail.

Scores are kept on file by CLEP for 20 years. Scores earned by military personnel are retained by DANTES and are kept on file for a longer period. Acceptance of the scores is at each institution's discretion.

All examinees may request that scores be suppressed from their transcripts at a later date.

Canceling Scores

If you do not want your score to be reported, you may select that as an option at the end of the exam before you see your score. Canceled scores cannot be reinstated, and canceled exams cannot be taken again for six months. Your exam fee will not be refunded. If you are a DANTES-funded military examinee, you cannot cancel your score; you must wait 180 days to retest in the same subject.

Essay Scoring and Retention

The essay portion of the English Composition with Essay exam is scored by English faculty from a variety of colleges and universities, and CLEP retains these essays. Each essay is scored by two or more faculty members using a holistic scoring method. See below for essay scoring and mailing dates.

Other composition and literature exams have optional essays that are sometimes required by colleges and universities. These essays are scored by faculty at the colleges and universities that require them. If you have questions about these optional essays, you must contact the institution that will receive your scores. If you do not select an institution to receive your optional essay on exam day, CLEP will retain your essay for 18 months.

Availability/Use of Scores

Candidate scores that have been released to colleges may be used for educational research or validity studies by the College Board, the receiving colleges, or ETS, but no names or identification of individuals will be revealed.

Test Security

Educational Testing Service (ETS), on behalf of the College Board, maintains test administration and security standards designed to assure that all test-takers are given the same opportunity to demonstrate their abilities and to prevent any test-taker from gaining an unfair advantage. ETS routinely reviews irregularities and test scores believed to be earned under unusual or nonstandard circumstances.

ETS and the College Board reserve the right to cancel any test score if the test-taker engages in misconduct, if there is a testing irregularity, if ETS believes there is reason to question the score's validity, or if the score has been obtained unfairly. Before a test score is canceled for the latter reason, the test-taker is given an opportunity to confirm the questioned score by retaking the test at the College Board's expense, or to authorize ETS to cancel the score and refund all test fees. When test scores are canceled because of irregularities, such as mistiming or defective materials, the test-taker may retest at the College Board's expense.

The test-taker may also request that the score recipient review the information and make its own decision about accepting a score, or that a member of the American Arbitration Association arbitrate ETS's action.

Reviews of questionable scores by ETS are confidential. If it is necessary to cancel scores that have already been reported, score users are notified, but the reasons for cancellation are not disclosed.

CLEP Security Standards

Colleges that grant credit for CLEP do so with the understanding that CLEP scores are legitimate measures of students' abilities. Therefore, CLEP has established security standards to ensure that all examinees have the same opportunity to demonstrate their abilities, and to prevent any examinee from gaining an unfair advantage. The CLEP program has developed the following security policies and procedures:

- When students take a CLEP exam, they agree to the following statement: "To maintain the security of the exam and the validity of my CLEP score, I will allow no one other than myself to know the exam questions. I will not disclose these questions to anyone at any time

ACE's College Credit Recommendation Service

The College Credit Recommendation Service (CREDIT) of the American Council on Education (ACE) enables you to put all of your educational achievements on a secure and universally accepted ACE transcript. All of your ACE-evaluated courses and examinations, including CLEP, appear in an easy-to-read format that includes ACE credit recommendations, descriptions, and suggested transfer areas. The service is perfect for candidates who have acquired college credit at multiple ACE-evaluated organizations or credit-by-examination programs. You may have your transcript released at any time to the college of your choice. There is a onetime setup fee of $40 (includes the cost of your first transcript) and a nominal fee of $15 for each transcript requested after release of the first. ACE has an additional transcript service for organizations offering continuing education units.

The College Credit Recommendation Service is offered through ACE's Center for Lifelong Learning. For more than 50 years, ACE has been at the forefront of the evaluation of education and training attained outside the classroom. For more information about ACE CREDIT, contact:

ACE CREDIT
One Dupont Circle NW
Washington, DC 20036

ACE's Call Center is open Monday to Friday, 8:45 a.m. to 4:45 p.m., and can be reached at 866 205-6267 or credit@ace.nche.edu. Staff members are able to assist you with courses and certifications that carry ACE recommendations for both civilian organizations and training obtained through the military.

Students already registered for an ACE transcript can access their records and order transcripts using the ACE Online Transcript System:

during or after the test. I am aware of and agree to the CLEP program's policies and procedures as outlined in the Information for Candidates bulletin."

- If a CLEP test center administrator finds that there is misconduct in connection with a CLEP exam, the involved student may be dismissed from the testing room, or the program may decline to score the exam or may cancel the score. Misconduct includes, but is not limited to, the following:
 - Obtaining improper access to the exam, or a part of the exam
 - Consulting prohibited aids such as textbooks, teachers or professors, other students, any electronic device, or any other resource during the exam
 - Attempting to remove questions or any notes relating to the exam from the testing room
 - Giving exam questions to anyone else or discussing exam content with others (including advisers, teachers or professors, family members, and other students) at any time
 - Leaving the testing room without permission
 - Creating a disturbance
- Examinees involved in any misconduct will be asked to terminate their exam and leave the testing room. These students may not return to the testing room, and the exam scores will be canceled. Failure to adhere to any of these policies and procedures may result in the invalidation of CLEP scores.
- Students who, at any time, communicate exam questions via e-mail, text messaging, the Internet, or any other means will automatically have their scores canceled and will be prohibited from ever taking another CLEP exam.
- If you observe any behavior that might lead to invalidation of grades (e.g., copying, use of notes from an unauthorized source, or access to exam questions before the exam), contact the CLEP Test Security Reporting Hotline as soon as possible. All information will be kept strictly confidential.

How to Complete the Registration Form

Before You Begin

Exam administration schedules, registration dates, and deadlines are set by individual test centers.

Contact your test center directly for this information before filling out this registration form. Some institutions use their own forms or have online registration procedures. Others will accept this form. Check with your test center to find out the deadline for submitting registration information.

Items 12 and 13—Test Dates

Contact your test center for available test dates. Enter your first and second test date choices (month, day, and year). A second date is needed in case there are any scheduling problems.

If you plan to take more than one test, you must submit separate fee payments for each exam.

Item 15—Students with Disabilities

Check this box if you require testing accommodations. Be sure to contact your test center well in advance of the test date to make the necessary arrangements and to find out its deadline for submitting documentation. (See page 3, “Accommodations for Students with Disabilities.”)

Item 17—Examinations

Check the box next to the title of each examination you wish to take. If your school requires you to write an optional essay, check the box and enter the title of the exam(s) for which you will also take the essay section. Exam descriptions are on pages 4–6.

Test centers’ policies vary as to how many examinations you may take in one day. Check with the test center where you plan to test.

Item 18—Repeating Examinations

If you are repeating any of the examinations you checked in Item 17, check this box.

Any examination may be repeated six months or more after you last took it, but inquire about your college’s regulations before registering for retesting. Scores on tests repeated earlier than six months will be canceled and test fees forfeited.

Item 19—Fees

CLEP Exam Fees: The fee for each CLEP exam is $70. Certain exams have an optional essay. If your institution requires an optional essay, you must pay an additional $10 fee to your test center. CLEP exams and optional essays are free to all eligible military personnel and civilian employees (with proper military ID). Test fees must be paid by valid credit card (preferred method of payment) or a check or money order made payable to the College-Level Examination Program. Checks made payable to any other payee will not be accepted, and CLEP cannot be responsible for cash sent through the mail. Your check or money order may be dated no more than three months earlier than the test date. There is a $15 surcharge for a returned check. A separate payment is required for each CLEP exam.

Test Center Administration Fees: Most test centers charge a nonrefundable administration fee, directly payable to the institution. The College Board recommends a $15 administration fee; however, each test center establishes its own policy and may charge a different amount. DANTEs-funded military candidates are required to pay the test center administration fee.

Contact the test center directly to inquire about forms of payment for the administration and optional essay fees.

REGISTRATION FORMNote: Some test centers use their own forms. Check with your test center about the form it requires.
